

The Old and the New in Prekallikrein Deficiency: Historical Context and a Family from Argentina with PK Deficiency due to a New Mutation (Arg541Gln) in Exon 14 Associated with a Common Polymorphysm (Asn124Ser) in Exon 5

Antonio Girolami, MD<sup>1</sup> Josè Vidal, BSc<sup>2</sup> Marcela Sabagh, BSc<sup>2</sup> Nora Gervan, BSc<sup>2</sup> Maria Parody, MD<sup>2</sup>
Edoardo Peroni, MSc<sup>1</sup> Luisa Sambado, MSc<sup>1</sup> Hugo Guglielmone, MSc<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Department of Medicine, University of Padua Medical School, Padua, Italy

<sup>2</sup>Department of Clinical Biochemistry and San Roque Hospital, Faculty of Chemical Sciences, National University of Cordoba, Cordoba, Argentina

Address for correspondence Antonio Girolami, MD, Department of Medicine, University of Padua Medical School, Via Ospedale Civile 105, Padua, Italy (e-mail: antonio.girolami@unipd.it).

Semin Thromb Hemost 2014;40:712.

ERRATUM

The author name, Marcela Sabagh, was misspelled in the author byline of the above article of Seminars in Thrombosis & Hemostasis (volume 40, number 5, pp. 592–599) doi: 10.1055/s-0034-1384767. The correct listing of the name Marcela Sabagh is mentioned above. The error was inadvertent and is regretted.